Voluntary Guidelines on the Responsible Governance of Tenure: Implications for Small Island Developing States

Paul -Faure Deputy Director Partnerships, Advocacy and Capacity Development Division (OPCL) Food and Agriculture Organization

Unprecedented global momentum to work on tenure

The Voluntary Guidelines: International recognition

"a milestone achievement."

José Graziano da Silva, Director General, FAO

"An historical momentum."

Alberta Guerra, Action Aid International

"We encourage private investment to be carried out in a responsible manner with VG and PRAI being taken into account."

Kazan Declaration on APEC Food Security

A true global multi-stakeholder consensus

Putting the Voluntary Guidelines into action

Who do the Voluntary Guidelines apply to?

The whole of society needs to be involved because tenure of land, fisheries and forest affects everyone in some way.

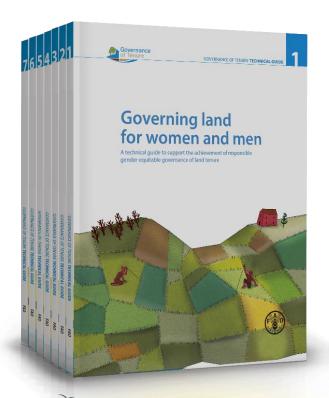

Global support to implementation:

Countries and governments; Global Donor Working Group on Land; Coalitions (GLTN, ILC); CSOs; Private sector; Academia, and; Professionals (FIG and member associations)

FAO's work: Partnerships

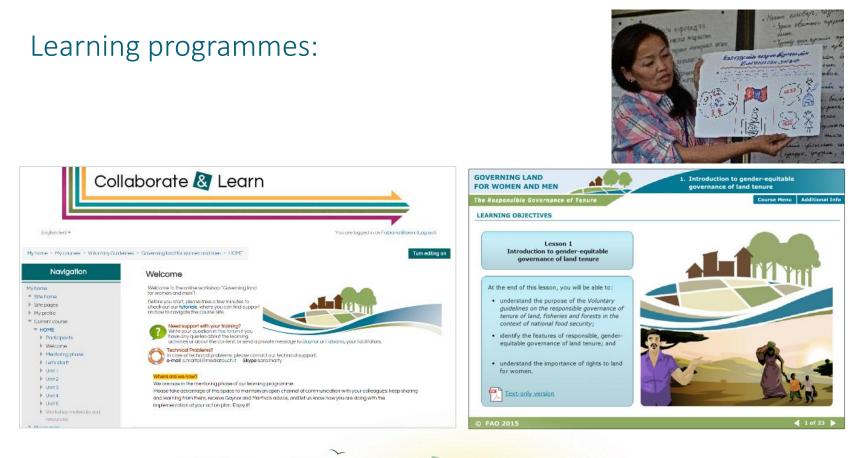

Technical Guides:

E-learning modules:

and the state of t

SOLA and Open Tenure software applications:

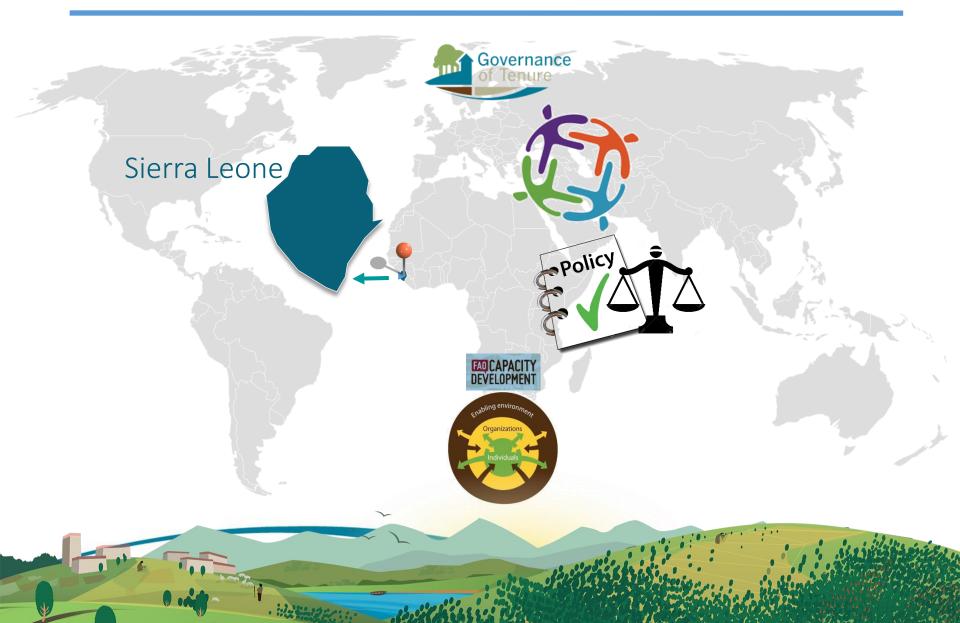

FAO's work: Progress at country level

Providing multi-tiered support

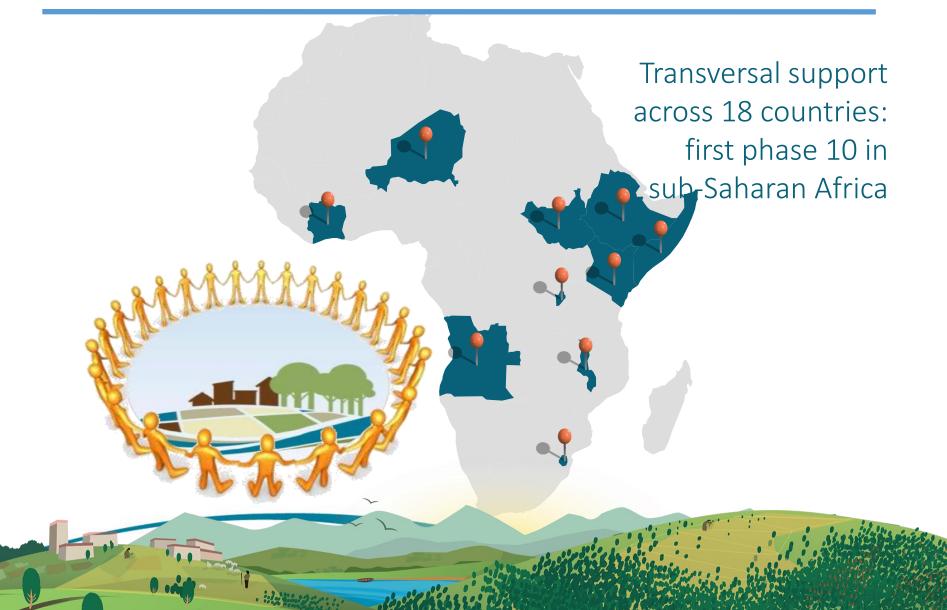

FAO's work: within countries

FAO's work: across neighbouring countries

FAO's work: lessons learnt across multiple countries

Voluntary Guidelines: Implications for SIDS and tenure professionals

Challenges from SAMOA, SDGs and others:

- Climate change and natural disaster risks
- Urbanization and informality
- Tenure governance

Tenure and access are crosscutting themes in an era of increasing pressure on natural resources and access

Voluntary Guidelines: Implications for SIDS and tenure professionals

Opportunities:

- Technological change is a key enabler (even since 2010!)
- Political will, agreement and support
- Consensus on tenure as a key cross-cutting issue
- Recognition and support for key tenure initiatives

What do you see as the key set of actions?

Thank you
