- 77 ICs registered as legal person

- Plan 10 ICs/Year

XXV International Federation of Surveyors Congress, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, 16 –21 June 2014
6-Challenge
1. The community's understanding of the law, regulation and procedures of registration still limited
2. Remote areas without proper and sufficient infrastructure resulted in difficulties to undertake the fieldwork during rainy season and to have full participation.
3. Difficulties to demarcate and register as some areas were including many private parcels.
4. IC land parcels are located sporadically in different villages and communes.

7-Conclusion
Granting collective ownership on land to indigenous communities provides them with a legal right to occupy and use, assures land tenure security for the purpose of livelihood-support and of increased agricultural products for the market.
